Unprecedented growth representing millions of dollars in construction was outlined Thursday morning in everything from local churches to residential developments to service facilities.

Canyon developers told guests at a Chamber of Commerce breakfast of the rapid availability of hundreds of houses in Canyon and civic and church leaders outlined their plans to meet the increased demands of a city on the boom.

With a theme undiluted optimism, Developers Carroll Vaughan, Jim Christopher and Larry Hooper told the early morning audience of plans for new home construction on the drawing boards and on the ground in their areas.

Vaughan, who is overseeing the development of the Hunsley Hills Addition north of U.S. 60 for A.W. Lair, used full color maps to show his plans for the development of more than 600 houses in an area the city has just annexed.

City commissioners Monday night annexed the remainder of the full section of Hunsley Hills to Hunsley Road on the north and between U.S. 87 and the VFW Road.

Vaughan said construction of roads has already begun on the newly-annexed area.

Development of the section will run about $2.5 million, he said, with 662 lots set aside for residential, townhouse and apartment living.

He noted that a year ago the development firm began construction on 20 houses "and there are 40 under construction now."

"You're going to see some tremendous changes in the next three to four months," Vaughan promised.

He said of 100 lots previously available for sale in the original Hunsley Hills area, only 25 remain unsold.

The first unit scheduled for development in the new portion of the development—that area north of Palo Duro Creek—has 183 lots, Vaughan said, and he feels about one-half of those lots are sold or have been spoken for.

"There'll be another 50-90 houses in Canyon in the next year," he predicted, referring only to the Hunsley area.

Developer Lair noted that in the last 90 days, new residents have moved into Hunsley houses from San Francisco, Oklahoma City, Chicago and Houston as well as Amarillo.

While the Hunsley development is the largest in city history, other local developers have also experienced the demand for Canyon housing.

Hooper, representing the Davis-Hooper addition in west Canyon, said 54 lots have been platted in the area west of the current Money Addition.

He said 14 houses have been constructed in the development and two more are currently on the drawing boards.

Christopher, representing the developers of Pioneer Estates in east Canyon, said the development is one of the oldest in the city with work there beginning in the late 1950s.

He said plans currently call for construction of condominium type apartments in the western area of the development and also for construction of a small retail sales area just south of the new Randall County hospital.

Christopher said 45 lots are currently available for development in the area with 100 more acres which can be developed as needed.

Wilton White, president of Panhandle Savings & Loan in Amarillo, outlined the plans for a development south of Amarillo which will have tremendous impact on the Canyon School District.

White said a half section of land is being developed west of the Canyon Expressway near Bell. He said the addition will offer a total planned community. The first unit platted contains 117 lots and 30 have been sold and will be used for a home show in September.

The entire project, he said, contains lots for more than 1000 homes.

In response to the developers Canyon civic and church leaders outlined their construction plans based on the increased demands placed on them by a burgeoning population.

No faculty cuts seen at WTSU

No faculty members at West Texas State University will be released from their jobs for the 1975-76 school year, it was announced Friday.

For the first spring in three years, no notifications of termination have been sent faculty members at the university, which has experienced declining enrollments for at least that period.

Nearly a dozen faculty members will not return to jobs next fall as a result of faculty cuts announced a year ago.

Letters of notification of termination are usually sent in the spring of the year to become effective in the fall of the following year due to the budget-making process at the university.

In making the announcement that no faculty members will be cut for 1975-76, Dr. Lloyd I. Watkins, university president, said the budget for that academic year remains "tight."

"It means we have put our emphasis on people first," Watkins said.

"It illustrates the fact that we have great confidence in the future of the institution," he said. "It makes us feel good there is no diminution of the quality of the institution."

Watkins congratulated the university deans and department heads for "tightening their belts," to allow for the retaining of faculty members.

"I'm also very pleased and relieved that we were able to make a budget without giving any notifications of termination," Dr. Ray Malzahn, academic vice president, said.

He said it was necessary to take advantage of every retirement and resignation available.

In addition, he said, the university reallocated some money from maintenance and operation funds and the summer budget for 1976.

He said the proposed budget for 1975-76 is based on what the university officials feel the enrollment will be for that year as well as enrollment in the fall.

"The success of the budget will depend considerably on the enrollment in 1974-75, upon the success of our combining some graduate and undergraduate courses and on whether or not the legislature votes a mandatory raise without additional funding," he said.

Malzahn said the outlook is good for increased enrollment next fall.

Commissioners will take offensive on complex

Canyon city commissioners go on the offensive this week with the printing and distribution of a fold-out brochure asking local residents to vote for construction of a new city hall building in the June 4 special election.

The brochure, which contains pertinent facts and figures concerning the construction of the municipal building, will be available in various areas beginning early this week. They will also be distributed to service clubs and women's clubs throughout the week.

Commissioners last week called a special election for June 4 to allow city voters to decide whether or not they want a new city hall building. The election is the result of a petition effort given the commission weeks ago.

Before commissioners can seek bids for construction of the building, they must submit the issue to the voters.

The brochure, prepared by City Manager George Louder, also contains a letter from the commissioners which points up the importance of the vote to the future of the city. Historically, few of Canyon's registered voters have gone to the polls in city elections.

The decision to be made on June 4, the commissioners say in the brochure "is one of the most important that the citizens of Canyon have ever considered. This brochure reflects the desperate need for new and modern facilities."

"An investment made now in modern facilities will pay dividends immediately and far into the 21st century. It is our feeling that if we are going to remain the exciting and unique community which Canyon is that we must at this time put our city government in adequate facilities to meet our growing needs."

The title of the brochure is "Now Is The Time: Vote For The Municipal Facilities Building."

Copy in the brochure points up the commission planning process for the construction, including their often reiterated promise that taxes will not be raised to pay for the project.

The brochure notes that total cost of the project is estimated to be $1,338,288.

Revenue for the construction will come as follows:

$520,000 from water and sewer reserve funds

$140,000 from general fund reserves

$483,000 from federal revenue sharing funds

Only $195,228 will require (See COMPLEX, Page 2)

Circus due in city for Wed. showings

The King Brothers Circus, a three-ring show with horses, clowns, baboons, llamas, camels, elephants and all the rest, will be in Canyon for two performances Wednesday, sponsored by the Canyon Chamber of Commerce.

Advance tickets are available through the chamber office or from

First National or West Texas State banks.

The circus will be performing at 4 p.m. and 8 p.m. Wednesday under the circus big top at the parking lot of Kimbrough Memorial Stadium north of the city.

This is the proposed new $1.3 million municipal building which Canyon voters will either vote for or against when they go to the polls on June 4. The new building will replace four buildings currently being used for a fire department, police department, library and administrative building. Canyon city commissioners will send out a brochure this week describing the new facility and the financing of the construction.

Shortages, and high prices of oil could spur exploration in county

Critical shortages of petroleum in the United States could spur increased interest in exploration in the Palo Duro Basin, which lies under Randall County, a basin much like the oil-rich Anadarko basin to the north, according to a West Texas State University geologist.

Already several oil companies are eyeing leases in Randall County, particularly in the northern portion of the county, according to County Clerk LeRoy Hutton.

Hutton said several oil companies have already filed lease arrangements and others are studying deed records in the clerk's office.

One company filed several oil leases about five months ago in the area north of Lake Tanglewood. Another lease was filed last week almost due north of Canyon.

More than five years ago, oil lease activity was spurred here when Shell Oil Co. drilled a wildcat well just east of Canyon on property owned by Dr. Charles Nester. The firm came up with a dry hole.

Underwood believes there's still reason to believe there may be petroleum in the Palo Duro Basin and that the frantic search for oil and gas could lead to increased efforts at exploration in the county.

In the past, he said, the Palo Duro Basin, which lies below the buried Amarillo Mountains to the north and extends to north of the Lubbock area, has been considered "rank wildcat country."

The density of wells in the Palo Duro Basin, he said, is one per 100 square miles.

But, the basin shares many characteristics with the Anadarko Basin, which has been a rich producer of oil and gas north of Amarillo and in western Oklahoma.

The Palo Duro basin is rich in sedimentary material just as is the Anadarko Basin.

"The assumption has always been that it should produce," Underwood noted, even though the sediments to be found in the Palo Duro basin are not as thick as those in the Anadarko basin so there wouldn't be as much production.

"The kind of random drilling done so far hasn't uncovered anything major," Underwood said, indicating further exploration is needed to make concrete determinations about the probability of production in the Palo Duro basin.

Because of the lack of drilling in the basin, Underwood said, the major oil companies are without a good set of information concerning the oil possibilities for the basin. Independent oil producers would be taking a major risk to sink wells into the basin based on the scanty information available now.

Interest in the Palo Duro basin has never been great, Underwood said, because it is more profitable for companies to drill in areas which are known to be productive or which have a very high probability rate of production.

Underwood said the shortage of petroleum plus the high prices for foreign oil could make the Palo Duro basin a more promising prospect for oil company exploration.

Senior citizen center a reality

A dozen Canyon senior citizens decided Thursday night to form a senior citizens center in the city and will have another meeting to make more formal plans this week.

Charles Conatser was named temporary chairman of the group, which decided to use the Canyon community center as a temporary location for a one-day-a-week activity.

Conatser called on all Canyon senior citizens to meet at 7 p.m. Thursday at the community center to contribute ideas to what a senior citizen center in Canyon should include.

Mike McQueen, director of the Amarillo senior citizen center, will be on hand to outline the functions of the Amarillo center as well as the operations of centers in other cities.

Margaret Logan, director of the Amarillo Retired Senior Volunteer Program, will also make a brief presentation on the RSVP program.

Refreshments will be served.

A telephone committee was established Thursday night to begin calling local senior citizens to urge them to attend this Thursday night's session.

Interest was expressed by the dozen who attended last week's meeting in forming a center in Canyon, beginning initially with a once-a-week affair at the community center, but working later into a more extensive program.

McQueen noted that interest in the Amarillo center spread rapidly and now more than 10,000 people a month use the center.

The Amarillo center offers various recreational activities, from dominoes to bridge to pool to shuffleboard. It also sponsors dances, bingo and other evening activities.

A key to the success of the Amarillo operation has been the offering of a $1 lunch menu for senior citizen members.

Those attending Thursday night expressed an interest in such similar services through a Canyon center.

County Judge Woody Pond said money is available to begin operation of a center in Canyon and McQueen noted that federal funding is available for food service operations on a temporary mission awarded a contract two weeks ago on the construction.

The project calls for lowering U.S. 60 to go under the current grade of 15th Street, which carries traffic into and from Hunsley Hills addition.

Cost of the project will be about $1 million.

Once the barricades are in place, other work can begin. (See U.S. 60, Page 2)

crews from Gilvin-Terrill of Amarillo set up barricades.

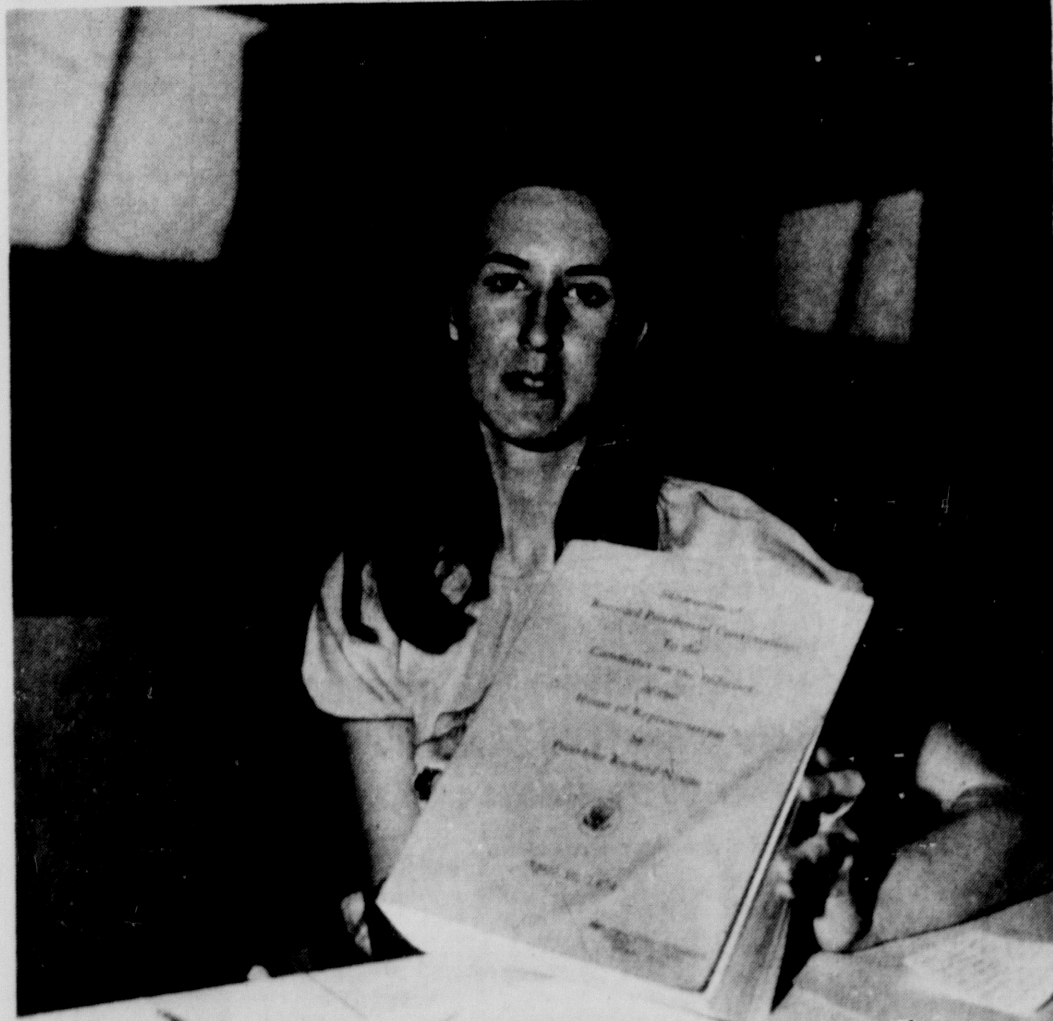

The crews will spend about a week on the barricade project.

The Amarillo firm, low bidder for the construction project, has estimated completion of the underpass will be by Dec. 1, 1974, a date much sooner than anticipated by the Texas Highway Department.

The Texas Highway Com-

Seven months of inconvenience which will ultimately lead to a safer and more convenient 15th Street will begin Monday for Canyon residents who travel either U.S. 60 or that street into or from Hunsley Hills.

Preparation for construction of an underpass at the 15th Street and U.S. 60 intersection north of Canyon will begin Monday as

Even though the national focus of attention is on the released transcripts of President Nixon's conversations, the 1300 page copy of the transcripts at the West Texas State University library has received virtually no attention, according to Barbara Anderson.

She said only one person has inquired about the transcript, but many workers in the library have stopped by her desk to examine the document. The Los Angeles Times for last Sunday also contains the full transcript and is on file at the library.

A Note On Mother's Day

By ANN BROWN

"Why," asked a little girl, "are mothers always pictured as old, wrinkled, and gray? My mother is young and beautiful."

The observant child was right: the majority of mothers are young.

There are, however, two good reasons for the seeming discrepancy: (1) Girls have to become mothers themselves before they understand motherhood does not automatically transform weak, fallible human beings into omniscient, omnipotent paragons who never make mistakes.

(2) Children have to grow up and leave home before mothers can be fully aware of the privilege of being a mother, of the awesome responsibility involved, and realize how woefully they failed to fulfill their responsibilities.

Some unknown author penned a prayer every young mother could profit from memorizing:

Give me patience when little hands

Tug at me with ceaseless small demands.

Give me gentle words and smiling eyes.

And keep my lips from hasty, sharp replies.

Let not weariness, confusion or noise

Obscure my vision from life's fleeting joys

That when in time to come my house is still,

Beautiful memories its rooms may fill.

Parents often attempt to bring up children on thunder and lightning. But thunder and lightning never made anything grow. Only rain and sunshine bring growth. It's the quiet, gentle forces that penetrate the child's natural defenses, and develop productive lives.

Some aborigines have been discovered in Mexico that have no police, no jails, and no crime. The children are never spanked. Never having observed violence, they seldom exhibit it. Their aggressions are channeled through hard work and strenuous exercise.

Children, like native meadows, produce both weeds and flowers. The mothers who spend too much time on the weeds — whether watering or cutting them — will eventually find they have neglected the flowers.

And mothers who set bad examples for their little ones are planting weeds.

Children respond to love, praise, and overt appreciation like flowers to sunshine and rain. Scoldings and disapproval wither them like drouth and noise burning heat. If they observe only good examples, they will need few reprimands.

Weeds can only be raked and burned. It takes flowers to leave fragrance in the empty rooms after the children have gone.

When the children are all gone, and mother has had a chance to rest, it is easy for her to look back and see all the things she might have done for them while they were growing up. But when she was tired and harried and hurried, perhaps she did the best she could.

It would, therefore, behoove every young mother to conserve her energies for the benefit of her children. After they are grown and gone, they won't remember how often they ate roast beef; they will remember if mother was there, and if she was kind and patient or sharp and cross.

It is only after girls themselves become mothers, and their little ones, too, have grown up and gone that they fully realize the meaning of motherhood.

Attitudes toward mothers go something like this:

A daughter speaks at 8 years: "My mother is wonderful; she knows everything."

At 13: "I've discovered my mother is not quite as wonderful as I used to think; she doesn't know everything."

At 18: "My mother thinks she knows it all. Actually, she knows very little compared with what I have already learned."

At 20: "My mother probably tries, but she doesn't understand young people at all. She has nothing in common with my generation."

At 30: "I'm beginning to see that my mother was right about many things — even if she was a little old fashioned."

At 50: "My mother was wonderful. She was wise and provident; and considering the way I provoked her, she was most kind and patient."

So by the time children learn to appreciate their mothers, they usually ARE old, wrinkled, and gray.

Everyone privileged to wear a red rose today still has a chance to express appreciation for Mother.

It's too late for a card. And even if it's too far for a visit, there's still the telephone.

Nixon Should Resign

By CARROLL WILSON

The transcripts of taped conversations between President Nixon and his top advisors could hardly be termed mute evidence of virulent immorality at the nation's highest level.

Rather, they scream for the resignation or impeachment of President Nixon.

No indictment handed down by a grand jury, no resolution of impeachment passed by the House, could be as damning as the transcripts themselves.

President Nixon should resign immediately. If he continues his adamant and dogged refusal, the House should impeach.

The transcripts, which are available at the West Texas State University library, paint a sordid picture of Richard Nixon, the kinds of decisions he makes and how he makes them.

As The Chicago Tribune has noted, as Sen. Schweiker has noted, as Sen. Scott has said, the transcripts reveal that the President is a practical man who considers alternatives.

But, the President is a practical man who considers alternatives which are based in politics only. Morality does not enter into the conversations of John Dean, John Erlichman, H.R. Haldeman or President Nixon.

When faced with a situation, the President considers only alternatives which will be expedient to himself, which will protect his position and which will reflect on Democrats not Republicans. Moral alternatives, morally right alternatives, are never discussed.

The President is shown through the transcripts to be a manipulator, a manipulator of men, of lives and of the country. He is conniving. His humor is restricted to mirth about misfortunes of opponents.

He comes across as a man without principals.

Like Spiro Agnew, President Nixon has perpetuated and fostered the public image of a man of high moral conviction. He is revealed as a man who places uppermost emphasis on the politically expedient.

The transcripts are disgusting.

They damage the Presidency and the President almost intolerably.

Coupled with the damage the President has done in his quest for power — his handling of allocated funds, his attacks on the press, his fights with Congress and the judiciary — the transcripts are a final crumbling of the facade many saw through months ago.

The transcripts are the postscript of an administration.

short-term financing, the brochure states.

"This financial program does not jeopardize any of the present or future operations of the city," the brochure states. "Adequate capital reserves will be maintained in both the general and water and sewer funds."

The brochure notes that the current city library is housed in a World War II barracks of wood construction. The current fire department is itself a fire hazard, the brochure says, and the current police department operates from an old lumberyard office. The current administrative offices are housed in an old store, constructed during the first decade of this century.

The new municipal building as planned would contain all those elements under one roof on a lot across from the current community center.

ly the $1.3 million construction project planned by the city to provide centralized offices for the police department, fire department and other city services.

The new municipal building will be constructed, he said, providing local citizens go to the polls on June 4 and vote for the construction project. City commissioners have called a special election on that date for a yes or no vote on whether they should build the complex with federal revenue sharing money and money from the water and sewer reserves.

"The commission encourages you to study their proposal and vote for it," Louder said. "We feel it's definitely needed."

He noted that taxes will not be raised to construct the building.

Ray Grimes, administrator of Neblett Hospital, told the breakfast guests that completion of the new South Randall County Hospital District hospital is expected by Jan. 1.

He said the new $1.5 million facility, which is now under construction west of the city on 4th Avenue, will have 50 beds and 42,000 square feet of space.

It will also contain the usual complement of hospital equipment plus a respiratory therapy and special care facilities.

Jim Hanson, director of the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum, outlined plans for expansion of the museum, expansion which will double the size of the museum.

He said current plans call for a large basement-type room to be added between the museum and the old West Texas State University library building, connecting the two at a subterranean level.

He said the project could cost as much as $100,000.

Hanson said the library portion of the museum will be completed with exhibits by July 4.

Texas Highway Department engineer Don Day outlined the construction of an underpass at 15th Street and U.S. 60 between downtown Canyon and the Hunsley Hills Addition.

He said the $1 million project should be completed within a year to allow for easier and safer access to the addition.

The Rev. Baldwin Stribling, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, said construction is almost complete on that church's new building.

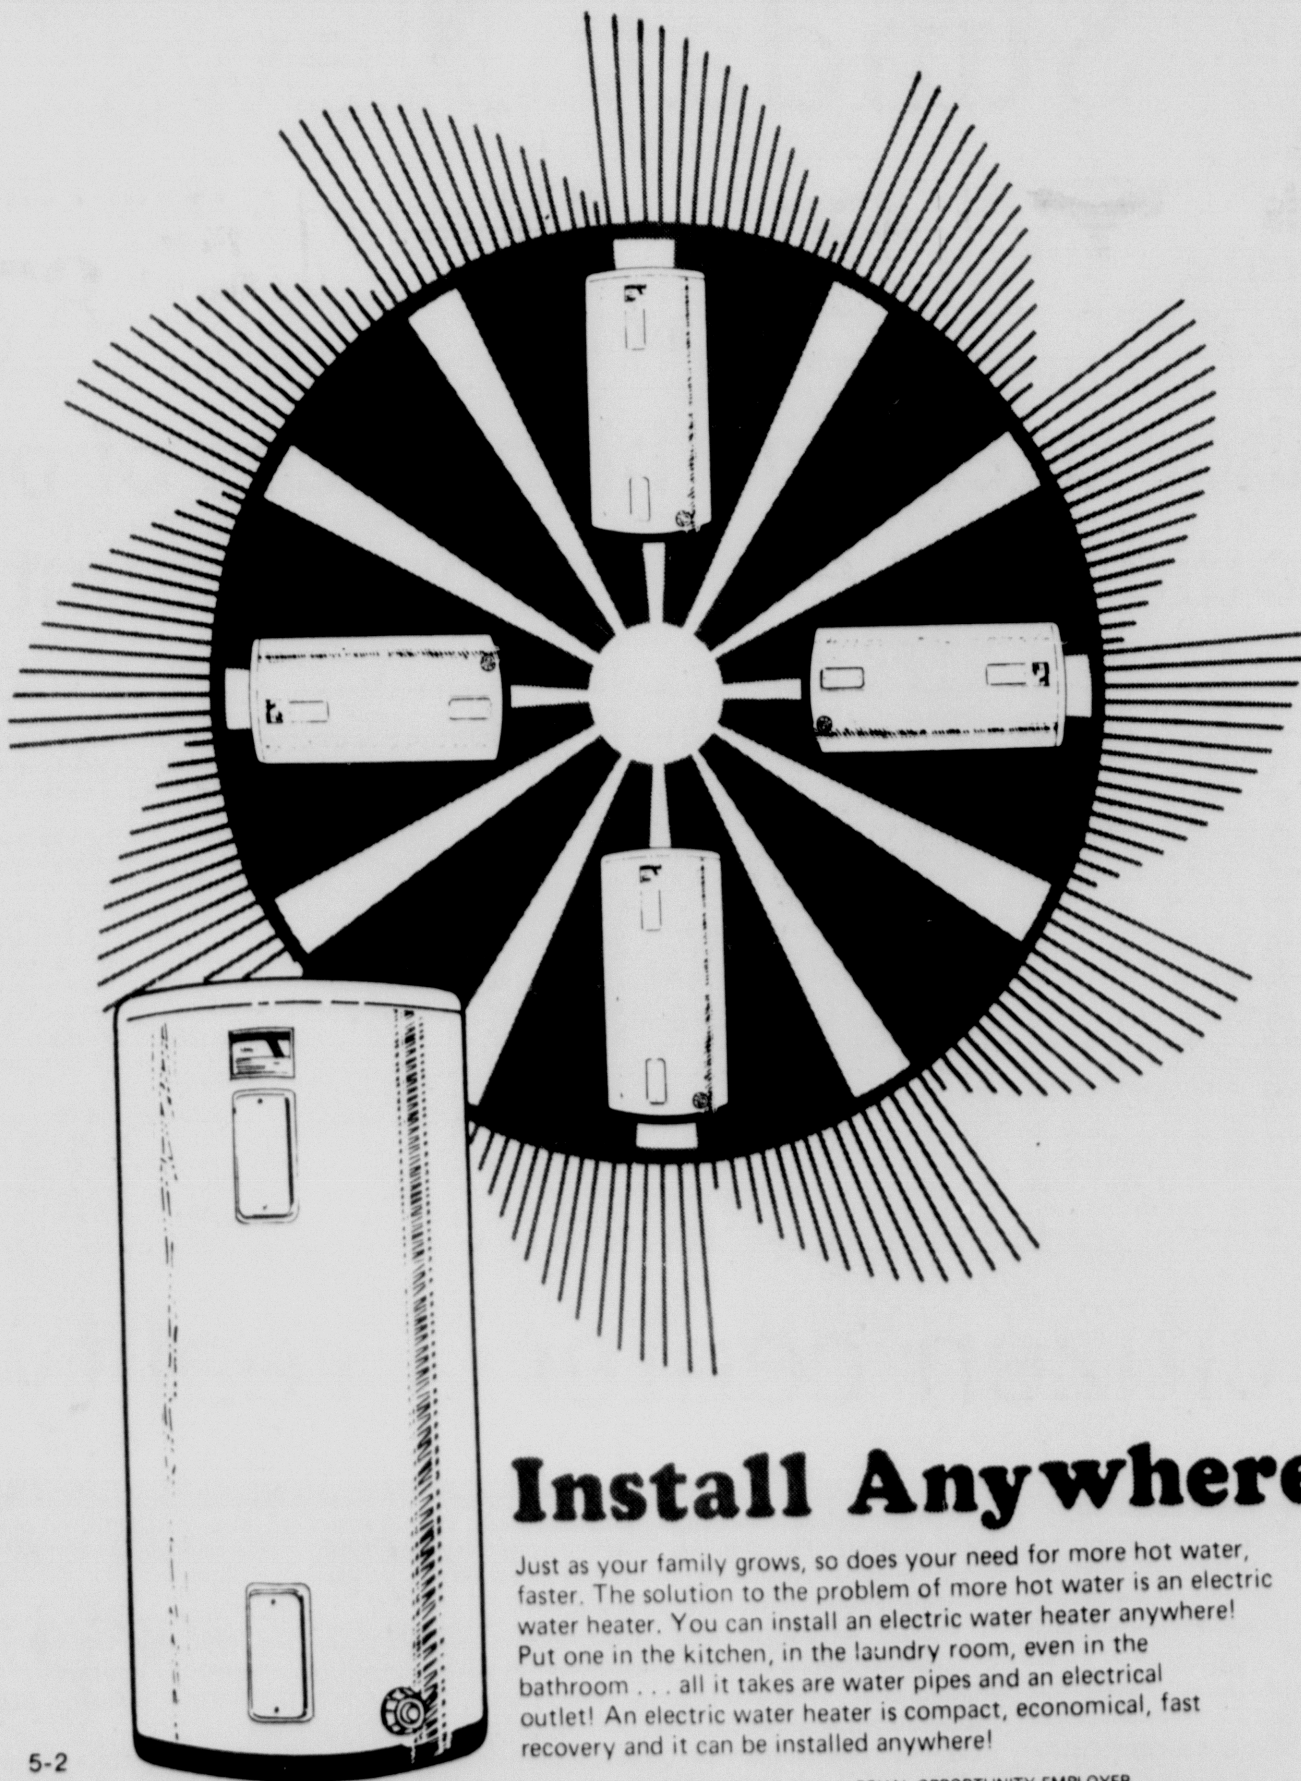

The structure, located at 19th Street and 10th Avenue, cost about $300,000 and contains 14,000 square feet. First services are to be held in the building this morning. Dedication services will be June 9.

The Rev. Bill Foil, pastor of the First Baptist Church, said current plans call for renovation of the auditorium of that church and eventual construction of a new education wing. The $350,000 renovation job will begin about Aug. 1.

Dr. Willis Harrison, representing the First United Methodist Church, said plans call for construction of a new wing with classrooms, offices, sanctuary and parlor to the east of the current church building. The 17,000 square foot construction project is expected to cost between $400,000 and $500,000. He said it is hoped the contract will be let by Aug. 1.

Dwayne Dennis, minister of the Central Church of Christ, said construction has already begun on a new church building east in Pioneer Estates.

The building, of colonial design, will contain 25,000 square feet and construction will be about $400,000. He said he hopes the church will be open by next fall.

Canyon Splits Doubleheader and Loses Championship

Canyon's hopes for the district baseball championship were dashed during the first game of a doubleheader played last Wednesday afternoon. Canyon lost the first game to Dumas, 6-5. Canyon won the second game 11-3.

"We had an excellent opportunity," according to Coach Bob Sloan. Canyon just could not get rolling soon enough.

Ed Lair, pitcher for the Eagles in the first game, gave up 10 hits, struck out seven and walked four. This is the most hits Lair gave up all season in one game.

Canyon defense could not offer much aid as they committed four errors.

Dumas led in the game 6-0 until the sixth inning. Jim Ward drew a walk and was followed by Lynn Wright who also walked. Ken Cooper fled out. Wayne Pitt hit a double scoring Ward. Ronnie Hicks singled to load the bases.

With the bases loaded, Lair singled to score two runs. Doug Day singled to score the final run of the inning.

Going into the bottom of the seventh inning, Ward and Wright again drew walks. Cooper again popped out to right field. Pitt singled and drove in one run. Wright and Pitt executed a double steal to put men on second and third. With two on and only one out, Sloan said he thought sure Canyon would win.

In the second game, Canyon did the unusual in high school baseball. In the first inning, Dumas scored two runs on three hits to lead off the inning. In the bottom of the first inning Canyon scored nine runs with all nine scored attributed to the five home runs hit in the inning by Canyon players.

Pitt started the scoring with a homerun. Terry Slagle followed with a double and scored on Lair's homerun. Day and Martin each singled. Ward hit a home-run over the center field fence to score three runs. Wright doubled and Taylor hit a home run over the left field fence. The next two batters popped out. Slagle hit the final homerun of the inning.

In the fifth inning, Martin hit another homerun.

Ken Cooper was the winning pitcher. He gave up seven hits and walked four. Defensively, Canyon did not commit any errors.

Sloan said that he expected good things for next year's team. With Cooper as a sophomore, he should aid the team greatly for the next two years.

Sideline Views

By JIM ROGERS

By JIM ROGERS

Scott Wilson is to be commended for his fine work and performance in the pole vault for Canyon High School. Wilson won second place last week end at the state track meet. While at the meet, Wilson cleared 14 feet 6 inches for the first time in his career. Prior to the state meet, he had cleared only 13 feet 6 inches.

Wilson almost had a 14 feet 9 inch record for his final year in high school competition but he brushed the bar on the way down. Wilson was awarded second place by virtue of one miss too many. Ron Mills, track coach at CHS, feels that Wilson will certainly get a track scholarship offered to him. Mills said that Wilson has the size and build for a pole vaulter.

Mills was impressed this year by the improvement that Wilson made. Mills said that Wilson gained one and one half feet over the year. This improvement came thanks to Wilson holding his head back and not watching the pole or bar.

For Coach Mills, Wilson is the ninth trackster that Mills has coached to clear the 13 feet mark. They keep getting higher.

Where will it stop? Will high schoolers finally reach that 18 feet world record? Will the pros and college ranking vaulters get higher? Time will tell.

The CHS girls track team was in Austin this week end to compete in the state track meet. One of the outstanding stars for the Canyon girls team is Robena Johnson.

This is the first year for Robena to compete in the high school division. On the district level, Robena won all five events she competed in. It was almost the same song on the regional level.

During her first year in high school athletics, Robena placed on the all district and all state first team for basketball. She was named to the all tournament team in the state meet at Austin. She was named to the Panhandle-Plains super team and was chosen sophomore of the year for the Panhandle-Plains region by a newspaper located to the north of Canyon.

If she keeps a level head and continues to work hard in the field and classroom, we should be hearing more from her in the future.

"Almost, but not quite hardly" might be the best way to describe the plight of the Canyon Eagle baseball team as they sought the district championship. Canyon ended the season in second place.

Dumas captured the district title with a 5-3 record in district play. Canyon had a 4-4 record and Levelland was third with a 3-5 record.

The Canyon baseball team and Coach Sloan are to be commended for the fine job they did this year. Sloan's teams have continued to improve since he took over the job.

It is a shame that the five homerun inning that Canyon had in the second game could not have been in the first game. It might have been the shot that Canyon men relive the day of childhood only at a slower pace as the slow pitch softball league gets underway. All team rosters must be turned in by May 15. This should prove to be an interesting season for the men.

A final note. This is directed to all summer baseball and softball coaches. Please, send us results of your games. Don't complain when your team is not mentioned. Let us know how you are doing. Include the results of your last game, how the scoring went and your won-lost record. As you may have noticed, for the past two weeks our newspaper has attempted to have a sports page and we will try to continue with your help. So, thanks in advance for what you are going to do.

WTSU Tennis Team Seeks Third Title

West Texas State University's strong tennis team will seek its third Missouri Valley Conference Championship in the past four years at the annual spring tournament May 18-20 in Denton.

The Buffaloes of coach David Kent won the MVC title in 1971 and 1973, while placing second in 1972.

This year's Buffalo team, which has been balanced between age and youth, has compiled the second best record of a David Kent-coached team at West Texas State. Kent has been at WTSU five years and his overall won-loss record is 94-31.

The Buffaloes have compiled a 17-4 record in matches this spring. The only record to exceed that record was the 23-3 mark established by the 1971 team.

Track Team Seeks Title

West Texas State University's track team, with its heavy load of underclassmen, hope to improve their 1973 fifth place finish in the Missouri Valley Conference spring championships Sunday and Monday, May 19-20, at Denton. ## Glover Signs Letter Of Intent For WT

Willie Glover, a two-year all-stater from Midland, Pa., has signed a national letter of intent to play basketball at West Texas State University.

Glover, 6-6 and 210 pounds, earned all-state honors both his junior and senior years in leading Midland High School to a pair of Class B state championships. Midland, under coach Ed Olkowski, compiled back-to-back 28-2 and 28-1 records during Glover's junior and senior seasons.

As the team's lone big man his junior season, Glover was sensational. He scored 21.2 points per game and averaged 19.7 rebounds. He shot 41 per cent of his field goals until the playoffs started, but blistered the nets at a 52 per cent clip during the state play.

Sophomore forward Chuck Gomez took some of the pressure off Glover this past season and the standout center scored 19.2 points per game and averaged 17.6 rebounds.

"Gomez took some of the scoring and rebounding load off Willie's shoulders and that helped both Willie and the team," said Olkowski.

As a junior, Glover was named to the United Press International Class B all-state first team. That team has not been selected yet this season. He earned second team all-state honors on a team selected by Associated Press this past season, but that team contains players from all three classes — A, B and C.

Glover was an all-sectional selection both his junior and senior years. He was also selected to the All-Tri-State team, which is made up of players from West Virginia, Ohio and Pennsylvania, for two years. He was the Most Valuable Player on the Tri-State squad this past year.

Lynn Laird

Laird Resigns As WT Trainer

Lynn Laird, athletic trainer at West Texas State University for the past seven years, has resigned to enter private business in Amarillo.

Laird will operate the Medical Drive Physical Therapy Clinic and is in the process of opening the High Plains Learning Clinic, which will offer testing and remediation of children with Language Learning Disability.

The Texas A&M graduate, who was one of the few registered physical therapists working in collegiate athletics, came to West Texas State from the United States Air Force Academy, where he was a trainer from 1965 through 1967. He was also a trainer at Texas A&L College.

The Coleman native attended Baylor University Medical Center in Dallas, where he became a physical therapist. He served in the Air Force from 1961 through 1963 and presently holds the rank of Major in the Air Force Reserve.

School Governments Not Affected By National Politics

By JIM ROGERS

"How do you expect the kids to be honest while the politicians are so crooked?" is a statement overheard by a history teacher at Canyon High School.

Students in high school and college may seem to be affected personally by the political turmoil of the United States today, but school government does not seem to be suffering from it.

Carroll Killingsworth, counselor at CHS, said that other than the usual complaint that the student government does not do anything, there is little ill feeling toward school politics as it relates to the student government. Killingsworth did say that apathy seems to be creeping up on high school students. He said that there was less concern about student council work and school functions than in years past.

In the past student election, 14 out of 18 offices only had one candidate seeking the post. There were no offices that had no candidates at all. There was no candidate for vice president and secretary of the student council.

Mrs. Mike Shepic, journalism instructor at CHS, said that it was a shame that students would not get a voice in the election of the vice president and secretary for the student council. According to the constitution that the student council at CHS addresses to the student council will appoint from their group a vice president and secretary at the beginning of next year.

Many Local Youngsters Receive Granny's Love

By LORENA MILLER
Ethel Dooley is known to numerous Canyon youngsters as the "granny" of Gingerbread House Kindergarten.

Mrs. Dooley, who will observe her 80th birthday, this November has for many years been a real "granny" to young students at the school which is operated by her daughter, Viola Robins.

"Viola started her babysitting at my home," recalls Mrs. Dooley. "That was about 16 years ago. At first she was just babysitting — then she decided to enlarge and take more children in to care for, so she taught the kindergarten age and I took care of the littlest ones myself."

Until about three years ago, Mrs. Dooley worked with the young children of the community and says that the "antics of the youngest were an experience which she should have recorded for posterity."

Mrs. Dooley took care of about 13-15 youngsters each day and "mended their scraped knees, soothed their hurt feelings and in general was a grandmother image to them."

Since her retirement for health reasons, Mrs. Dooley has spent many hours piecing quilts. She is presently working on three special quilts for her own grandchildren as she has three who will be graduating this year and plans to make each of her 17 grandchildren and 5 great grandchildren special quilts before she lays down her quilting needles.

Born November 30, 1894, Mrs. Dooley started her early life in Greenfield, Iowa. She was the daughter of J. H. and Margaret Paxton Crowley. The Crowleys came to Canyon and Randall County in 1907 by train.

"We came by train and when we got here we walked from the depot downtown and there were no sidewalks at that time," she recalled. "It seemed odd not to have sidewalks, as they had sidewalks where we had moved from in Iowa."

"For many years the courthouse square wasn't even paved and I have seen many vehicles stuck in the mud down there," she said.

"We came to Texas when I was twelve years old. Our reason for moving here was to cure my father's asthma," said Mrs. Dooley. "My father bought a section of land about six miles south of town for himself and two quarter-sections of land for my two older brothers who were newly married at that time."

Her father, J. H. Crowley taught for a number of years in the former Pleasantview School which she attended until about the 7th grade. She later came to Canyon to complete her high school education and earned her degree in primary education from West Texas in 1916.

his father's garage as a mechanic.

Her husband died when their youngest daughter, Ava, was eleven years old. Ava now lives in Houston with her husband, Joe Wardell, and family.

The Dooley's other children include, Viola, the eldest who operates the Gingerbread House Kindergarten in Canyon; a son, C. M. Dooley, who lives in Harlingen where he has an insurance business; and Iris, who lives in Houston with her husband, Tony Brown, a dentist there.

French Cooking Is Demonstrated

Connie Bralley of Albuquerque, N.M., demonstrated the finer points of cooking the French way and demonstrated several dishes at a program Tuesday afternoon in the home economics department at Canyon High School.

Mrs. Bralley is a graduate of the Cordon Bleu school of Cooking in Paris. She will demonstrate foods from hors d'oeuvres and soups to main dishes in various sessions this week in four Amarillo homes.

The local program was sponsored by the L'Alliance Francaise.

Mrs. Bralley and her husband, Retired United States Air Force Colonel Walter Bralley, lived in Amarillo during the early 1960's when he was assigned at the Amarillo Air Force Base with the SAC Squadron. She edited her first cookbook while living in Amarillo which was a booklet of recipes compiled by wives of men stationed at the base. The recipe booklet contained foreign recipes from throughout the world.

Since moving from this area, she has also edited a cookbook for the Albuquerque Young Women's Christian Association.

Arriving by plane only shortly before her first appearance in the area, Mrs. Bralley presented the Canyon High School program for about 50 students, teachers and other guests Tuesday afternoon. The audience included a number of boys and girls as she demonstrated and on the bottom. Tilt the pan and roll the omelette out, starting it away from the edge of the pan with a spatula or fork. Let it roll itself over on itself on to a warm plate.

Variations:
Bacon — Diced, cooked and drained
Cheese — Grated Swiss of Cheddar
Chicken — Cooked, chopped or creamed
Vegetables — Cooked, drained and reheated in butter
Fish — Cooked, flaked and creamed
Ham — Chopped or in strips, sauteed in butter
Seafood — Heated in butter or creamed
Herbs — 1/2 t each chopped parsley, watercress, chives, tarragon or chervil, scallions, beaten into the eggs before cooking.
Green peppers — sauteed in butter

Sausages — cooked and sliced
Mushrooms — sliced and sauteed in butter
Tomato — chopped and seeded
Fluffy Omelette
4 eggs, separated
3/4 t salt
2 T butter
4 t milk
Beat yolks with milk and salt. Beat whites until stiff but not dry. Fold the whites gently into the beaten yolks. Melt butter in a heavy skillet and cook slowly over low heat for about 5 minutes, or until the omelette has puffed up and brown on the bottom. Transfer to a 400°F oven to finish browning on top and cook through. This should take about 8 to 10 minutes. Cut in wedges and serve from the skillet. This omelette benefits from being served with a sauce, passed separately. Grated cheese may be sprinkled over the top of this omelette just before placing it in the oven.

Dessert Omelette
Omit salt from the above recipe and add 1 T sugar. When it is cooked sprinkle the top with confectioner's sugar and serve with melted jam or jelly as a sauce.

Mrs. Bralley's program continued with a brief discussion and demonstrations of French Crepes which she made by the following recipe: 2 eggs, 6 Tbsp. flour, 1 cup light cream and assemble by beating the eggs, add flour, mix together well then add cream gradually and allow to age in refrigerator for 2 hours or overnight before cooking.

"French crepes have a lacy effect," stated Mrs. Bralley as she poured 1/4 cup of batter into the sizzling hot pan and turned out crepe after crepe. "They are the French version of pancakes — but are much lighter and more delicate than the traditional pancake or flapjack served in America."

"Crepes are used for desserts or with leftover fillings for a second meal," she stated. "Last week I tried diced pot roast filling in crepes with roast gravy, sour cream and mushroom sauce on top — it was very good."

The basic recipe which she shared can be used for a dessert dish, or as a main dish with omission of the sugar as follows:

French Crepes
1/4 cup sifted flour
1/2 t salt
1 t double-acting baking powder
2 T powdered sugar
2 eggs, beaten
2/3 c milk
1/3 c water
1/2 t vanilla or 1/2 t grated lemon rind
Sift flour and measure, then sift again with other dry ingredients. Add milk, water, and flavoring to the beaten eggs. Make a well in the dry ingredients and pour the egg mixture into it. Combine with a few swift strokes. Ignore the small lumps; they will take care of themselves. Refrigerate the batter at least 2 hours before using. It should be the consistency of cream. If using the crepes for a dish other than a dessert, omit the sugar.

Chicken Filling For 12 Crepes
Make a roux with 5 T butter and 5 T flour. Cook and stir until a light brown. Stir in gradually 1 c hot milk and 1 c hot chicken stock. Cook and stir until thickened. Cover and cook over a low heat 25 minutes, with an occasional stir.

Meanwhile, saute 4 T chopped mushrooms in 1 T butter; when they are lightly browned, add 3 chopped shallots or green onions. Cook another minute. When the cream sauce is done, set aside 1/4 of it. Combine the rest of the sauce with 2 c chicken, diced and cooked and 3 T sherry. Spread this mixture onto 12 crepes and roll them up.

At this point they may be frozen. The 1/4 of the cream sauce is enriched with the beaten yolk of one egg and 4 T heavy cream. This too may be frozen.

When ready to serve, defrost and place the crepes at room temperature, in a shallow greased baking dish. Heat the sauce and pour it over the crepes. Top with grated Parmesan cheese. Bake at 400°F for 10 to 15 minutes. If the crepes have not been frozen, bake 5 to 10 minutes at 350°F or broil about 2 minutes or until golden brown.

Cheese Souffle with Sauce Florentine
2 pkgs (9 oz.) frozen creamed spinach
5 to 6 h. b. eggs, peeled and halved
1 small onion, chopped (1/4 c)
1/4 c butter
1/4 c flour
1/2 t salt
1/2 t dry mustard
1 c milk
Few drops Tabasco sauce
4 eggs, separated plus 2 whites
1 c shredded imported Swiss cheese
Heat spinach following package directions; pour into greased 8-cup souffle dish. Arrange cut surfaces of eggs against side of dish. Saute onion until soft in butter in small heavy pan. Blend in flour, salt and mustard; cook, stirring constantly, until just bubbly. Stir in milk and Tabasco; continue cooking and stirring until sauce thickens and bubbles for 1 minute. Remove from heat. Sauce will be thick.

Beat egg yolks into sauce, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Beat egg whites just until they form soft peaks in a large bowl. Stir about 1/4 of egg whites into sauce.

WT Track Team Enters Nationals In Denton

Coach Mary Hill of West Texas State University has entered 10 of her athletes in the National Women's Collegiate Track and Field Championships, which will be held Friday and Saturday, May 17-18, at Denton.

The WTSU athletes qualified by either placing among the top three finishers in the state meet here two weeks ago, or by meeting a qualifying standard.

Leading the list of entries is Stinnett freshman Billie McClellan in the mile and two-mile runs. She qualified in the 880, but won't run that event at national. In addition, she set a state record of 5:24 in the mile run. Pampa senior Debbie Bray is another two-mile run entry.

Other individual entries are Dumas freshman Trena Burgess in the 880-yard run, Jerre Russell, Nazareth senior, in the high jump, and Amherst freshman Verna Stagner in the 400-meter hurdles. Miss Burgess had a best of 2:33 in her event, while Mrs. Russell jumped 5-2 and Miss Stagner ran 70.0.

The Buffaloes also qualified for national in three relay events — the 880-yard medley, the 440-yard relay and the mile relay. Runners on the 880-yard relay are Mrs. Russell, Barbara Lofton, New Deal freshman; Kathy Schumacker, Hereford junior; and Mary Elliott, Haskell freshman. Their best time is 1:56.

The mile relay team, with a best time of 4:16, is made up of Miss Elliott, Miss Stagner, Kathy Brockman, Nazareth freshman, and Mrs. Russell. The 440-yard relay team is composed of Miss Lofton, Miss Schumacker, Dumas sophomore Ann Lust and Miss Elliott. Their top time is 51.5.

Preliminaries start at 9 a.m. Friday and finals are slated to start at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Lucille Hutchins, right, will retire this spring after 21 years as a women's residence hall supervisor at West Texas State University. She talks with one of her wards, Gwen Wolfe.

Dorm Supervisor 21 Years Retires To Stay In City

In September of 1953, Lucille Hutchins entered Cousins Hall, a female-student residence on the West Texas State University campus, as its assistant dormitory supervisor. Today Mrs. Hutchins is the director of Brown Hall, a dormitory which houses freshman women.

After almost 21 years of service, Mrs. Hutchins has decided to retire from her position "so I can travel and see some of the United States," she said.

Since a variety of rules change every day, there was no doubt that the rules of a college dorm would change with the times. According to Mrs. Hutchins, upon her arrival at the WT campus in 1953, freshman women had a 8 p.m. curfew each day except Wednesday, which was 9:30 p.m., and week ends at 11 p.m. All upperclassmen had a 10 p.m. daily curfew and 12 p.m. weekends.

Now there is no curfew at WT for any student because of administrative changes and student support. Combination locks have been installed on the women's residence halls so they may come and go as they wish.

"I like the combination lock very much," Mrs. Hutchins said, "because the girls feel more free and that they're not in jail, locked in and can't get out."

"Some don't stay out as much as they used to think they'd like Lorenita visitin'."

to. It's just the idea that they couldn't get out that they disliked."

Supporting no curfew further, the director said "There is no discipline for coming in late. Disciplinary actions are part of the work I never liked anyway; however, it seems like every one wants to cooperate with us and follow the rules."

When asked about the advantages and disadvantages of supervising as many as 200 young women, Mrs. Hutchins said "I think there are a lot of advantages. You have a younger or broader point of view on things, and more of an open mind to what's going on in the world. It keeps me from being alone also, because sometimes I feel blue and kind of depressed; and then some of the girls will come along and talk to me and I feel like a different person," she said.

The soon to be great-grandmother said that she thinks any of the girls should and do "feel free to come to me and discuss problems of any kind."

"I've seen a lot of frightened little girls who are very unsure of themselves when they come to Brown. Now they have developed into secure professional young ladies," Mrs. Hutchins explained.

The mother of three children, Mrs. Hutchins plans to live in Canyon "because I want to be near my friends and so some of the girls can come to see me."

"I've enjoyed my work and I wouldn't trade anything with anyone for my experiences with the girls."

The Hutchins children are Barbara Mantooth of Lubbock, John Ed Hutchins, Yuma, Ariz., and David Hutchins, Hereford. There are nine grandchildren.

Mrs. Hutchins will be replaced and Nancy Jo, of Houston and by Mrs. L. Knowles, former assistant at McCaslin Hall, June 1.

Bass Family Likes Small Town Atmosphere

The Richard Bass family moved to Canyon on Feb. 16. He is now with the Department of Reclamation in Amarillo.

The family, who have lived in Indianapolis, Ind. for the past eight years while Bass was Director of Wild Life Resources for the state, said that they enjoyed the small town environment of Canyon. Both Bass and his wife came from small town backgrounds.

One reason for the family moving to this area is to be closer to Mrs. Bass' parents who live in Arizona. Bass is from Illinois.

There are seven children in the family, Linda, age 18, Janice, age 17, David, age 15, Steve, age 13, Larry, age 12, Terry, age 12 and Roger, age 9.

The family enjoys spending time together involved in water sports such as sailing and scuba diving. The men of the family enjoy hunting season.

The family was drawn to Canyon for a place to live because of the enjoyment they found here during trips from Indiana to Arizona. According to Bass, because of the size of the family they camped out a lot during their trips from their home to Mrs. Bass' parents home. He stated that they enjoyed visiting the canyon and the museum while in this area.

Bass said that he wanted to eliminate January and February from the winters that the family encountered in Indiana. He said that one day he was digging out of a 21 foot snow storm when his neighbor said "You're moving to the Panhandle of Texas? Why that is where it snows so much."

Bass said that the family had enjoyed the mild winter this year.

When asked how they enjoyed school and life in Canyon, Janice replied, "I feel like I have a name." Steve said that, "Kids out here are nicer."

They said that they enjoyed walking down the halls at school and other students speaking to them and calling them by name.

According to Janice, there is quite a different attitude about church attendance among young people in Canyon and young people in Indiana. She said that in Indiana one that went to church would be laughed at while here it was a common thing for a student to ask where you attend church and invite you to visit their church.

The family looks forward to the end of this school year when the eldest daughter, Linda, will join them. Linda is still in Indiana finishing high school. Linda has registered at WTSU and plans to attend in the fall.

Included in the program will be a cornet trio playing "Bugler's Holiday." They will be accompanied by the high school band. Members of the trio are John King, Patricia Maxwell and Marc Guy. Other selections include highlights from "South Pacific," "Sonus Ventorum," "Tango for Band," and "In a Day or Two," by the Symphonic Band. Concert Band numbers will be announced at the program.

Other high school band numbers will be "Jubilant Overture," "Masque," highlights from "Pippin" and "Vila Bella March."

The concert will be preceded by a meeting of the Canyon Band Parents in the high school cafeteria at 7:30 p.m. The purpose of the meeting is to elect officers for the 1974-75 school year. The new officers will be announced at the concert.

Alcohol Studies Talked At WTSU

The Panhandle-South Plains Criminal Justice Institute of Alcohol Studies held a day-long session at the West Texas State University Activities Center Thursday.

Keynoting the conference were L. O'Brien Thompson, chairman of the Texas Criminal Justice Council, and Judge Giles W. Dalby, an Institute faculty member from Garza County.

In his speech, "CJ's Concern with the Alcohol Problem," Thompson called for the professionals of the criminal justice system to look for new approaches to the problem of alcohol abuse. He also cited the need for new funding sources to finance alcohol abuse rehabilitation programs.

Dalby stated that 75% of the cases which are processed through the criminal justice system are related to alcohol. Since many alcohol abusers are first identified by local judicial jurisdictions, Dalby also called for the criminal justice system to use "hard love" in helping the alcohol abusers.

Dr. Frank Lawlis, associate professor of psychology at Texas Tech, headed a day-long session entitled "Reaching People," which was a condensation of a full semester course in interpersonal skills aimed primarily toward parole and probation officers.

"This is to help in acquiring skills relating to positive outcome," Lawlis noted. The three skills he wished to impart were empathy, warmth and genuineness.

Lawlis' methods included tests to analyze individual attitudes, small group interaction to help develop the three skills, and role-playing.

Much of the informative part of the Institute involved discussions of successful alcoholic treatment programs as well as basic information on alcoholism. Judge Bill Holder of Archer County and Owen Dawson showed the methods by which they "Implemented a Successful DWI Program."

Other presentations were made by Randall County Criminal District Attorney George Dowlen on "Alcohol and the Texas Penal Code," and Texas Commission on Alcoholism coordinator Ross Newby on the "Implications of The Uniform Intoxication Act."

Early Days Recalled By E. E. Plank On 95th

In 1975 the United States will be celebrating 200 years of being a nation, but this May 19, Mr. E. E. (Ed) Plank of Canyon will be celebrating his 95th birthday.

Having participated in nearly half of the life of this nation he has had a colorful and interesting life. According to the vital statistics, Ezra Edward Plank first saw the light of day in the little town of Rantoul, Illinois.

Mr. Plank tells the following story about his life: "Illinois at the time of my birth was a semi-developed country of a swampy nature, given to much mud and very poor roads or no roads at all. When the rains came, as they had a continual habit of doing, it was not an uncommon sight to see four horses hitched to the two hind wheels of a wagon, from which the wagon box had been removed, making their way to town for groceries.

"Speaking of groceries; mother always baked the bread, or cornbread, principally cornbread and much of the balance of our food was raised on the farm. Hogs were always butchered in the fall or winter season, cured and put up for the summer. Beef was handled in the same way, only that beef was hung up to use off of as fresh meat during the winter season, and portions of it sugar cured and hung up to smoke to use in the summer as dried beef. I remember the butchering occasions which were really something to a bunch of kids.

"We had a neighbor by the name of Pearly Rusk that lived about a mile east of us. In the fall of the year they made sorghum and we kids would work our way over there of an evening, about the time to take off the last batch for the day, and with our dirty fingers help to clean out the pan, after the last of the molasses had been drawn out. When we started in the molasses was clean and when we got through the pans and our fingers were both clean.

"I well remember the big piles of sugar cane that the neighbors would haul to the mill, the piles of pumice was laid to one side and as it dried out was used to fire the boilers to cook the sorghum. I remember also the old gray horse that was hitched to the sweep that made the power for extracting the juice from the cane stalks. I remember that they used the parlance there as they use it in south Texas; molasses was spoken of in the plural number, that is, those molasses or them molasses.

"This Rusk family lived between us and Rantoul, as I remember it. At the present time this is the site of Chanute Field. The base also comprises a part of what was once my father's farm.

"Another little circumstance that I quite well remember was the finding of several pieces of money; can't recall how much, but it was like a gold mine to a bunch of kids that hardly knew what money was when they saw it. It was in the road at the end of the lane that led into our home. How many times we scratched over that little spot of ground in hopes of finding more, I will never know.

"No one ever showed up looking for the treasure so I suppose it went into the family budget to provide more biscuits for a house full of hungry kids.

"I remember that the older boys in the family, brother Will in particular was old enough at that time to make a fair hand. Wages at that time were quite cheap, by present day standards. Seems I can remember that Will made $10.00 per month. The Plank boys all learned to work when they were little and they carried that particular characteristic with them all their lives.

"Speaking about the early days, and that the country was very much of a swamp, especially in the rainy season. This necessitated the matter of some sort of drainage for the land. I don't suppose the matter of Government Bureaus were even thought of at this early date.

"Folks then, as they should be now, were the masters of their own problems. They organized themselves and their communities into drainage districts and provided the necessary funds and machinery to effect the needed relief.

"One of these ditches was in process of construction while I was a kid, and the ditch, as it was called ran across the corner of my father's pasture. It was dug with what was probably the modern power for that type of work in that day and age, namely several yoke of oxen, ten as I remember. One or two bull whackers would handle the power, which would have been impossible if attempted with horse power with all of their fiery disposition.

"The state University of Illinois was just eleven miles from our home. There was, in our neighborhood, an outstanding young man by the name of Thomas Arkle Clark. He and my brother Grant were fast friends and he prevailed on my brother to go with him to the University.

"I remember a couple of years after we had moved to Missouri that I heard my brother say that at such and such a time he would get his 'Sheepskin.' That was a new one on me. Learned later it was his diploma from the University of Illinois he was talking about.

"Thomas Arkle Clark upon graduation, by reasons of his outstanding qualities, was chosen to be on the faculty and remained as Dean of Men at the University of Illinois, until the time of his death. Men, whom I have met in the west, who attended the University of Illinois, knew and loved Thomas Arkle Clark, among them our own Wes Izzard, of the Amarillo Globe News.

"As a young man, living on a farm in Missouri became rather dull. I heard talk of the wonderful land to be had for the taking out west, so in 1900 with five dollars, all the money I had, and my few clothes I started to Oklahoma, then Indian Territory, to help build a new state.

"On the 14th of October, 1900 I filed on my claim of 160 acres of land west of what is now the town of Arnett, Oklahoma. In order to support myself while proving up the claim I taught school at Garber, Oklahoma. I also served as United States Land Commissioner for several years helping homesteaders with their 'final proof of lands.' Upon obtaining the patent to my land, which was signed by Teddy Roosevelt, we land owners began to think in terms of statehood.

"I attended the sessions of the Constitution Convention which brought Oklahoma into statehood. Knowing that upon becoming a state which was in 1907 our area would be made into a new county of Ellis, which was to be created out of part of old Day county.

"We wanted the county seat town so we started making plans. Several other men and myself purchased a quarter section of land, had it surveyed off into lots, and formed the Arnett Townsite Co. of which I was chairman of the board. We then held a big land auction. The lots brought from twenty five to fifty dollars a lot. We gave a parcel of land in the middle of town for the courthouse square. The courthouse was built and is still being used.

"Having a county seat town we needed other facilities so I brought a friend, whom I had met at Garber, to Arnett and with some others we organized the Farmers and Merchants Bank of which I served as a director and president for a few years. The bank is still a going concern and has contributed much to the development of that part of the state.

"Other things were needed, so I started the Arnett Leader (newspaper) which is still in operation. It is now published as the Arnett Leader-Ellis County Capital. I was owner, editor, reporter, etc. along with what help I could pick up from 'tramp printers,' as we called them in those days.

"With two other men we built and operated one of the first telephone exchanges in the state. This company is still serving the area. I also served as postmaster for a few years.

"My older brother, Grant Plank was now living in Lawrence, Kansas where I decided to move my family, which now consisted of my wife, Laura and two children, Earl and Esther. Grant and I organized the first Building and Loan Association in Lawrence.

"Finding the business was not adequate to provide a living for two families, I decided to move further west.

"With my brother, Henry, we traveled to Clayton, New Mexico where I made a deal for the Union County Leader (newspaper). I moved my family to what was then a rip, roaring, western town with ten saloons, a board walk and no pavement. Here our second son, John, was born and I purchased the first linotype, in that part of the country, to replace the old hand set press and imported my brother Jim to operate same.

"My political views and those of some of the more prominent citizens of town were at cross purposes so they offered to buy me out. Since my feet were becoming itchy again and after a shooting incident involving my newspaper office, after which my brother Jim decided to leave, I took their offer.

"In 1917 I purchased some land in Lipscomb County, Texas and after living in Higgins, Texas for a short while moved my family back to the land. Here our children Lewin, Jay and Betty were born, sometimes without the aid of a doctor as it was thirty miles to town, and by horseback that is quite a distance.

"Earl became the man of the family when all of us, with the exception of him, were stricken with the flu in the epidemic of 1918. We lost our son Lewin, cattle froze to death that winter and later our house burned, drought struck and the years were hard.

"However, in 1927-28 we struck it 'lucky' with a bumper wheat crop, so moved to Pampa, Texas in order to give our children an opportunity for a better education. Here our son David was born.

"We had built a new home, only to be caught up in the depression of the thirties. However, those times passed and better things were in store for us. We purchased additional land in Swisher and Randall Counties and began to prosper again. In 1947 we moved to our farm west of Canyon where we still continue to make our home," concludes Mr. Plank.

Mr. Plank is still an active member of the United Methodist Church and Canyon Rotary Club. He also keeps up his interest in politics, is an avid reader, and loves to travel. He has traveled in Europe and he and Mrs. Plank took their second trip to Hawaii the spring of 1973 when he was 94 years of age.

They flew to Houston this month to spend Mother's Day with David and his family and daughter Betty and husband. Their other daughter Esther is a professor in the Education Department at Texas Women's College at Denton, Jay is a pilot for United Air Lines and he and his wife Marcia, live in San Francisco. Earl and his wife Faye live at Clovis, N.M. where they have ranching interests. Their second son John passed away in 1969 as the result of an accident.

The Planks also have 17 grandchildren and 19 great grandchildren.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The foregoing account of Mr. Plank's life was sent to the Canyon News by his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Earl Plank of Clovis, New Mexico.

Professor Writes Album Booklet

A West Texas State University professor who's spent more than a decade researching the life of one of the Southwest's greatest musicians saw the first fruit of his long labor this week when he received a new musical album to be released this month.

Dr. Charles Townsend, associate professor of history, received an advance copy of "Bob Wills And His Texas Playboys For The Last Time," a two-record album cut last December in Dallas just before the famous Wills lapsed into unconsciousness.

The album, to be released by United Artists of Hollywood, Calif., contains a 16-page book, illustrated with pictures, written by Townsend concerning the life and music of Wills, the originator and perpetuator of the distinctive Western Swing sound in music.

Townsend began work on the booklet following an inquiry from United Artists.

"I was pleased when I discovered United Artists wanted a scholarly piece of work done by a serious scholar," Townsend said.

What Townsend produced is a booklet which includes primarily historical information concerning Wills' life and the life of the Texas Playboys from 1915-1973.

Information for the booklet was gleaned from Townsend's massive study of Wills and his music, which will be examined in more detail in Townsend's forthcoming book, San Antonio Rose — The Life and Music of Bob Wills.

The book will be published later this year by the University of Illinois Press.

Already the album booklet has brought Townsend and WTSU some fame.

United Artists has placed both album and booklet in the Library of Congress as historical works.

And, Townsend expects the album to be reviewed by various major metropolitan newspapers. The last album by Bob Wills received reviews in the New York Times and the San Francisco Chronicle.

Townsend has also been contacted for interviews by representatives of a major Los Angeles radio station concerning the album, which United Artists expects to nominate as its selection for Album of the Year in the Grammy Awards.

The album was cut in early December 1973 when many of the original Texas Playboys came back together to form a final session with the seriously ill Wills. Country musician Merle Haggard is featured on the album.

But, Townsend is also on wax as well as paper in the album.

He opens one selection on the record with the words "The Texas Playboys are on the air!"

Townsend said United Artists plans to sell as many as 250,000 copies of the album.

City Students Elected To Posts

Four West Texas State University students from Canyon were elected to Student Senate posts during the elections in May.

Gene Vaughn Morrison was selected vice president, Debbi Rossi and Ann Dooley were named representatives of the school of business and Nancy Groves will represent the college of arts and sciences.

Senior voice education major Morrison is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene H. Morrison of 1307 9th Avenue. Miss Rossi, a junior business education major, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christian Rossi of 406 9th Street, while Miss Dooley a freshman secretarial studies major, is the daughter of Mrs. Claire Dooley of south of the city. Miss Groves, a freshman non-major, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald A. Groves of 2101 1st Avenue.

The Student Senate is the legislative body of the student government with a 1974-75 budget of $7,000. They suggest policy and make recommendations for changes to the administration. Each senator represents the interests of his individual college or school.

Backward Look Recalls Citywide Efforts In '64

Looking toward the future can be exciting as growth is envisioned, but taking a look back in time can be a refreshing pause to see where we have been in the past.

Ten years ago Canyon citizens were working together in a joint effort to stage the 75th anniversary celebration for the county which drew over 6,500 local residents along with area folks into Canyon in mid-summer for the feasting and barbecue with parades and many events for entertainment.

At the Canyon News office, reporters and paste-up personnel were busy getting together a special anniversary edition encompassing 86 pages of newspaper giving readers a chance to review the history of their town, its residents, and its many clubs and churches.

Local residents attired themselves in the fashions of yesteryear as they strode Canyon's streets during the weeks preceding the celebration week end where Texas Senator John Tower was the guest speaker, after Lyndon Johnson had declined the invitation due to his new appointment as the vice president of the United States.

Mrs. S. C. Bradford, the former Mamie Conner who was the first white child born in Randall County, was on hand for the celebration along with numerous other old-timers who celebrated this historical day with the young folks who were quite proud of their beards and moustaches in the city contest.

Those spy square dancers spent one evening on the courthouse square dancing to their hearts content as country and western music wafted through the air. Numerous civic clubs joined together to prepare a true western barbecue for the citizenry and meanwhile at the rodeo arena judging and events were underway as horses and riders were competing for various prizes and recognition.

Taking a look back — it was the combined effort of the citizens of Canyon and Randall County who made the 75th anniversary celebration a success.

TEN YEARS AGO the Canyon News crew donned old fashioned western attire in the joint city-county celebration for the 75th anniversary observance which drew local residents together in a festive mood. From left are Debbi Dierking, Betty Donnell of Happy (who is still with the news as paste-up and assembly department head), Janie Brantley, and Lorena Miller (who recently rejoined the news staff as social editor).

Math Course Uses Spanish

A unique course to help initiate public school involvement in bilingual education on the elementary level will be given at West Texas State University the first summer term, June 3-June 21.

Bilingual mathematics 490-1 is a course in first and second grade arithmetic utilizing Spanish vocabulary to be taught by WT mathematics professor Miguel Tarrab.

"Mathematics is the subject that in-service and prospective teachers find most difficult to understand," noted Tarrab. This course is to help "anyone interested in becoming a more effective bilingual teacher," since the Texas Legislature has made bilingual education compulsory this fall.

The numeration system and simple computations will be discussed and solved both in English and Spanish with oral drilling. No mathematics or Spanish will be required or assumed.

"This course will be offered in a workshop format," Tarrab said. "This means that all work will be done during class, and that there will be no homework."

For more information write or call Dr. H. L. Cook, Mathematics Department, West Texas State University, Canyon, Texas 79016 or (806) 656-2267.

Students at West Texas State University line up in the student union building to sell back their textbooks to the university bookstore this week as the spring semester rolls to a close. Final exams were taken this week on campus. Classes end Friday. The first summer term begins in early June.

Canyon Student Wins Scholarship

West Texas State University senior nursing student Eddie Garner from Canyon was named the recipient of the $100 High Plains Baptist Hospital Auxiliary scholarship at a brunch honoring the WTSU senior nursing class recently.

Also honored in the ceremonies from Canyon were Becky Mitchell, daughter of Mrs. Pat Mitchell of Schaeffer Trailer Park and Karen Russell of 2711 5th Avenue. Garner is the son of Mrs. Nila Beth Garner of 1806 5th Avenue.

Garner also won the contest for a pin design in which he received a prize of $15. The pin, presented to the senior class during ceremonies Wednesday, incorporates the initials "WT" within a circular background representing the world as a whole. Also depicted is a rising sun symbolizing the university with its rays as students going forth to serve mankind, a theme reinforced by the Latin motto "Nonebis solum," meaning "Not to ourselves alone," written underneath.

"I do not think one will ever find together again 14 students with such intelligence and ability," said Mrs. Danna Strength, WTSU assistant professor of nursing.

The senior nursing sponsors are Dr. Hazel Aslakson, head of the school of nursing, Mrs. Strength and Jeannie Henager, instructor in nursing.

Students of Texas history in Mrs. Nadene Lyles' classes had Mrs. Patty Kilpatrick, education director at the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum, as their guest Friday. Mrs. Kilpatrick presented a program on the history of the Panhandle area. Mrs. Kilpatrick allowed students to participate in her exhibit. Left to right, Duane Dunlap, Mrs. Kilpatrick, Debbi Russell and Laura Lindsey show the hats that were worn years ago.

Rex Reeves PTA Installs New Officers On Monday

Rex Reeves Parent-Teacher Association will meet Monday evening in the all-purpose room of the school beginning at 7 p.m. with an installation of new officers on the agenda.

Other business will include a discussion and vote on new playground equipment for the school.

Adopting the east playground at Rex Reeves Elementary School as a project at the first of the year, the Rex Reeves PTA has spent $275 on repair of existing playground equipment and plans to spend an additional $1400 on new equipment. The 1973-74 officers of the PTA led in this endeavor.

The PTA met with the school board Tuesday, May 7. At the meeting, the school board agreed to run water lines and bring in fill dirt for the project.

The PTA hopes to place two water fountains, teachers benches, three pieces made for children to climb on and a new and imaginative design for the children's play.

The new piece of equipment was designed by Darrell Smith. According to Ann Carlisle, president of the PTA, a local builder has agreed to build the equipment free of charge. It will be next year before this piece of equipment will be put on the playground. According to Mrs. Carlisle, this equipment will allow the child's mind to create various types of fun activity during recess.

A design of the new "toy" will be shown at the PTA meeting Monday.

The PTA also plans to buy new soccer balls, kick balls, basketball goals and to build a field hockey court on the west playground.

A crew of men plan to finish the repair work by Saturday. ATO fraternity from WTSU has donated labor to the project according to Mrs. Carlisle. She said that she also wanted to thank the businesses that had given the PTA a discount on the price of equipment they had bought, Hunsley Hills who donated the fill dirt used in the project, Mr. Brazzil, who gave over 100 trees and shrubs to be planted in February on the playground and Mrs. J. B. Roberts who gave English Ivy that has been planted along the fence on the east playground.

Martha Sheets is chairman for the project committee.

Claude Currie, District VIII president, will be guest speaker and conduct the installation of new PTA officers including Margaret Rawlings as president.

Other officers to be installed are Ann Carlisle, first vice president; Maureen White, second vice president; Pat Wiggins, third vice president; Karen Sheffy, secretary; Isabell Garcia, corresponding treasurer; Billie Ruth Clark, treasurer; Marilyn Maynard, historian; Joy Davis, reporter; Karen Smith, parliamentarian; Lavonda Hall, publicity; Mary Bates, hospitality; and council members, Lavada Urton and JoEll Newman with alternate council members being Marie Kershen and Barbara Hartman.

Entertainment for the PTA meeting will be provided by the sixth grade choirs under the direction of Donna Wilson, choir director.

The choirs will sing "Ben," "Seasons in the Sun," "Beautiful Morning," "Chopsticks," and "Baked Potato," two novelty numbers, "Texas Forever," the theme of the play "Texas," "Battle Hymn," and "Lord's Prayer."

A fall membership table will be available where parents may join the group with a $1 membership fee.
